

Congrats on the idea for creating a list where people can opt-out of receiving unwanted calls from telemarketers. I personally recieve between two and five calls a day from pushy telemarketers trying to sell their products/services. Such a list would be especially useful for people who (like myself) never buy or order anything from telemarketers, making those calls a complete waste of everyone's time.

Now if only we could do something about junk email...